this volume of the journal of police studies reflects on theoretical developments concerning police the book is focused on a paper by Jack R. Greene titled 'The Tides and Currents: Eddies and Whirlpools and Riptides of Modern Policing' connecting thoughts the paper was the outcome of a seminar organized at Ghent University in the framework of the working group on policing of the European Society of Criminology ESC held in September 2010 Greene's contribution refers to original background papers which were published earlier this book pushes the analysis further – starting from the observations Greene makes in his provocative roundup the book's themes include collective action and crime policing and social democracy the role of the law in policing violence and police the militarization and demilitarization of police politics and policing the transformation of policing the evaluation of research methodology buzz words and basics in policing the history of theory the emerging new policing role and its implications police education and training the erosion of community policing the complexity of policing dirty crime global crime and policing the central tasks of the police democratic policing the journal of police studies is a quarterly which is oriented towards high standard quality contributions on policing issues and phenomena that are of interest to the police topics are approached from a specialist and if required multidisciplinary point of view the volume looks to answer questions regarding the developments of police and police cooperation in europe at the supranational level as well as explore the reactions of police organizations in individual european countries to the process of transnationalisation in terms of the design of and philosophy within police organizations police services across the globe are increasingly perceived as heavy handed racist and unnecessarily violent as a result large sometimes even national demonstrations have been waged against police policy and strategy mending broken fences policing provides a discussion on contemporary policing the role of policing in modern society and its relationship to the diverse communities represented in a postmodern world mending broken fences policing provides a model based on social cohesion and police intervention intelligence led and community policing ip cp which supplemented by a quality quantity crime qqc framework provide a four step process for viewing policing services from a vantage point beyond broken windows and statcom nl arms 2016 offers a collection of studies on the interrelatedness of safety and security in military organizations so as to anticipate or even prepare for dire situations the volume contains a wide spectrum of contributions on organizing for safety and security in a military context that are theoretically as well as empirically relevant theoretically the contributions draw upon international security studies safety science and organizational studies empirically case studies address the reality of safety and security in national crisis management logistics and unconventional warfare focusing amongst others on rule of law during missions in which expeditionary military forces are involved in policing tasks to restore and reinforce safety and security and on the impact of rule of law on societal security the result is a truly unique volume that may serve practitioners policymakers and academics in gaining a better understanding of organizing for the security safety nexus this book is a systematic and comparative analysis of police systems in the western world looking at their structure and how they tackle contemporary social problems such as economic austerity multi level governance transnational change relations with minorities and transformation of delinquency core content includes comparative histories of the formation of national police systems a discussion of centralised and decentralised police systems international differences in community policing a review of different police strategies in fighting delinquency and reducing urban disorder a comparative analysis of different ways of controlling police misconduct an exploration of different models of plural policing while other books focus on policing in relation to measures effective in decreasing delinquency and augmenting security this book considers the political professional administrative and political economic parameters which frame and shape the course of police reforms it also explores how operational policing is shaped by the cultural and institutional contexts in which it is located it is essential reading for students engaged in international police studies and comparative criminal justice this is a book about the men and women who police contemporary south africa drawing on rich original ethnographical data it considers how officers make sense of their jobs and how they find meaning in their duties it demonstrates that the dynamics that lead to police abuses and scandals in transitional and neo liberalising regimes such as south africa can be traced to the day to day experiences and ambitions of the average police officer it is about the stories they tell themselves about themselves and their social worlds and how these shape the order they produce through their work by focusing on police officers this book positions the individual in primacy over the organisation asking what policing looks like when motivated by the pursuit of ontological security in precarious contexts it acknowledges but downplays the importance of police culture in determining officers attitudes and behaviour and reminds readers that most officers lives are entangled in and shaped by a range of social political and cultural forces it suggests that a job in the south african police service saps is primarily just that a job most officers join the organisation after other dreams have slipped beyond reach their presence in the service being almost accidental but once employed they re write their self narratives and enact carefully choreographed performances to ease managerial and public pressure and to rationalize their coercive practices in an era where evidence and what works reigns supreme and where cop culture is often deemed a primary socializing force this book emphasises how officers personal histories ambitions and vulnerabilities remain central to how policing unfolds on the street authorities often fear societal change as it implies finding a new balance to live together within society whether it is defined by economic political social or cultural factors the transformation of life in society is considered by authorities as a risk that needs to be framed and controlled the state s response to this situation of transformation can be analysed through the prism of the police informally or not police systems adapt their regulatory frameworks their structures and their practices in order to respond risks new threats and new rules this process which is mostly of a contemporary nature is also deeply historic analysing it on the long run is therefore particularly relevant from the late nineteenth century until the second half of the twentieth century policing new risks in modern european history provides a panorama of political and police reactions to the risks of societal change in a western european perspective focusing on belgium france and the netherlands but also colonial perspectives this book explores policing regulation private security and intelligence to understand current transformations in policing policing today can no longer be understood only in terms of an organization the police but more and more in terms of multi agency processes this could be functional for national security interests safety and security but detrimental to accountability and the democratic process bob hoogenboom discusses notions of blurring of boundaries unbounding and hybridity and pays homage to and critiques leading thinkers in the field hoogenboom argues that police studies and criminology are too fragmented and focused on the criminal justice system and not oriented enough towards undertows in policing and security drawing from not only a wealth of academic sources but also literature and popular culture this book unpicks what these new forms of security mean for governance book jacket due to developments in crime public disorder and society in general police forces across europe are increasingly confronted with cross border cases as a result the need for police cooperation intensifies and more and more police practice is based on scientific knowledge cepol asked a group of experts from six european countries to reflect on these developments why do senior police officers need research and science what kind of scientific knowledge fits their professional framework how do they make use of it the report including expert commentaries ventures to provide some answers by exploring key questions and aims to open a further discussion about modern day police science and potential paths towards a european approach
